

stand. Mr. Stumpf, under oath, stated that his company had never made ice from canal water. Mr. Gates then asked this question: "Do you use the well on your premises?"

Mr. Stumpf: "We do." Mr. Gates: "I will be able to prove that you do not."

Mr. Stumpf again, under oath, stated that his company did not use canal water.

Mr. Rosenegg, of the Rosenegg Brewing Company, was next called.

Mr. Rosenegg said: "We don't use canal water because we are too far from the canal. We use wells and springs."

(Great laughter.)

Mr. Rosenegg was allowed to retire.

The Home Brewing Company was called, but as its plant is some miles from the canal its representative was not closely questioned.

To the Grand Jury.

Mr. Gates then made the following statement: Turning toward Mr. Vingfield and Mr. Stumpf, he said:

"I will bring this matter before the grand jury. If you want to carry it to the bottom, I will with you. If you want to know where I got my information, I'll tell you that I got it from men in your employ, and I KNOW you are using water out of the canal and dock to make ice."

"I'll either make you swear to a lie or I'll run you down. You are using dock water, and you know it. I've employed an ice expert at my own expense to look into this matter, and I intend to see it to the end."

Mr. Gates also stated that he had placed five pounds of Richmond ice in a pitcher and five pounds of Norfolk ice in a pitcher, placing both pitchers in the same locked closet. When the ice had melted the water from the Norfolk ice was clear and odorless, while that from the Richmond ice "stank."

The Board of Health then went into executive session.

Has More Evidence.

Mr. Gates stated after the meeting that he has evidence which he will use only as a last resort, that the ice companies have been using canal and dock water for making ice.

"They can lie as much as they choose," said Councilman Gates, "but I've got them."

A number of members of the Council were present at the meeting.

After the executive meeting of the Board of Health none of the members would discuss the report they had made to the Council Committee on Health. It is understood, however, that the report will be in favor of the ice manufacturers who testified on oath that they had not used water in the manufacture of ice from either the canal or dock. In any statement was not broken down in any way, and it would appear that the Board of Health cannot do otherwise than report according to the face of the sworn statements, as brought out last night.

COME TO THEIR AID.

Mr. C. W. Saunders Has Plan for Raising Money for Primary.

Chairman James A. Doherty, of the City Democratic Committee, stated yesterday that he had not yet been asked to call a meeting for Friday evening, but that if he were asked to do so, he would accept the proposition.

The purpose of the prospective meeting is to take action on a proposition of Mr. C. W. Saunders, of the City Democratic Committee, to hold a senatorial and gubernatorial primary in Richmond, August 22d, and endeavor to raise money therefor by popular subscription.

Mr. Saunders is of the opinion that desirable men should be secured and paid, but that it is a hardship on the candidates to expect them to bear all this expense. He does not favor asking for volunteers, but prefers to get experienced and reliable men and to pay them the sums usually paid for such service. Here is the resolution he states that he proposes to offer for the consideration and action of the committee:

"Whereas, in order to insure the success of the primary election in 1901, the Democratic State Committee found it necessary to make assessments upon the candidates for the various nominations, and

"Whereas, these assessments, though necessary and proper, are burdensome upon the candidates, and we are anxious to relieve them of this burden so far as possible,

"Resolved, First, That this committee undertake to raise the money to pay the expenses of the primary election in Richmond.

"Second, That to raise the money for this purpose the city news papers are requested to receive donations which any persons may subscribe for this purpose.

"Third, That the committee make the election officials should receive more than $1 a day."

THE GOVERNOR IN FLUVANNA

(Continued from First Page.) man, but claimed the right to criticize any one's public record. It could not be denied that the reforms for which he had been contending for years had been defeated at the Roanoke convention by the friends of Senator Martin, who admitted that he was opposed to the resolution then offered.

The Governor, while admitting the diligence of the junior senator in securing appropriations, thought that there had been some exaggeration in the matter, and he referred to the fact that the appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars to Richmond College, for which Senator Martin's friends gave him great credit, was embraced in an appropriation bill carrying three million dollars, in which every senator was interested.

Talk about getting a bill as that through, said the Governor, why, you could not have held it back. I don't deny the senator did his duty in the matter, but there was not much to do; he had only to jump on the wagon and ride.

The Governor thought that in this matter of appropriation the services of the members of the lower house and Congress had been overlooked by the over-zealous friends of Senator Martin, who were disposed to give the senator all the credit for them. But grant him all the credit that is claimed for him in this regard, are we ready to concede that a senator's whole duty lies in getting money from the national treasury? He then referred in eloquent terms to the standard of statesmanship set by the Virginia senators of old, and defended himself against the charge of presumption and self-praise, which had been laid at his door because, formerly, he had dared to dedicate himself to high political ideals.

The Governor's speech was well received, and it is believed it made many friends for him in this stronghold of Senator Martin's.

Mr. Cabell's address was chaste and elegant, as might have been expected from a man of refinement and broad culture. He showed that the office of Lieutenant-Governor was not the unimportant one it is generally thought to be, and he convinced many of his hearers, who before were indifferent in the matter, that he was the man for the place.

It is believed that as a result of Mr. Cabell's speech here to-day, which was received with enthusiasm, a fine void will be rolled up for him in Fluvanna.
